Exciting investment opportunities with kingdom impact and potential financial return for your Giving Fund

Most NCF givers send grants to charities to make a tangible difference for the causes they love. But a growing number of givers are investing part of their Giving Fund balance to generate charitable good.

With impact investing, your fund's assets can be invested in private companies, venture funds, or nonprofits that are achieving spiritual or social impact. Once the investment is made, the entity puts the money to work. And if there are earnings, they go back into your fund.

While in your fund, the assets have the potential to generate financial returns while furthering the causes you care most about. Then, you can recommend more impact investments or continue granting to your favorite charities.

Expanded kingdom impact

Make a charitable impact with the funds in your account in addition to recommending grants to the charities you love.

Purposeful growth

Simultaneously support today's major causes, and likely generate more return for your NCF fund.

Wise capital stewardship

Integrate the investment of your charitable capital into your family's long-term stewardship and generosity plans.
