

Make the most of every gift

An introduction to the National Christian Foundation

“Well done, good and faithful servant”

It's a phrase that resonates deeply in the heart of every faithful steward. But we know that the more you have, the harder it can be. At times, you might be concerned about getting it wrong. You may feel isolated, confused, or simply overwhelmed by the weight of it all.

You're not alone in your desire to steward well.

At the National Christian Foundation (NCF), we understand the challenges that come with being entrusted with much. For more than four decades, we've had the privilege of walking alongside thousands of givers and their advisors, guiding them through the complicated landscape of giving.

As we've helped them discern God's story for their generosity, we've seen them make the most of every gift – from their material wealth to their vision, passion, relationships, expertise, and influence.

Your story is much bigger than your wealth ... and we're with you to help bring it to life.
